A

Art Unit: 1711

All previous rejections are hereby withdrawn.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 6, 14-16, 18, 20, 31, 32, 35, 36, 41, 42 and 43 rejected under 35

U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Dey et al. (US 6,605,959).

Dey et al. disclose an adhesive composition for use in lamination containing INDOPOL (a polyolefinic isobutene copolymer having a small amount of 1-butene which is a liquid and therefore non pelletizable) melt blended with a grafted thermoplastic elastomer (KRATON FG-1901X) as well as the tackifier ARKON P-90. Note Example 1 and table 1. While it appears certain that INDOPOL is liquid and therefore unpeletizble, INDOPOL is less than 50% in example 1 and absent the presence of another polyolefinic non pelletizable polyolefin, the limitations of the claims would not be met. However, ARKON P-90 is used in such amounts that more than 50% is present and as both ARKON and INDOPOL are used as tackifiers (column 4, lines 23-33) similar properties (ie both are assumed non pelletizable liquids) and therefore the ARKON alone is present in sufficient amounts to meet the limitations of the claims. Arguably however, the examiner may be incorrect and ARKON may be pelleted. However, to use INDOPOL at a level of greater than 50% as required by the claims would have been obvious to a practitioner having an ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention given that patentees teach the equivalence of ARKON and INDOPOL as tackifiers and use INDOPOL at such levels and in the expectation of adequate results absent any showing of surprising or unexpected results.

When the reference discloses all the limitations of a claim except a property or function, and the Examiner cannot determine whether or not the reference inherently possesses properties which anticipate or render obvious the claimed invention, basis exists for shifting the burden of proof to applicant. Note In re Fitzgerald et al. 619 F. 2d 67, 70, 205 USPQ 594, 596, (CCPA 1980). See MPEP § 2112-2112.02.

Hogan (US 6,194,485), cited of interest discloses that INDOPOL materials have a molecular weight of only less than about 2300 at column 3, lines 33-50 (and thus expected to be liquids or semisolids and thus unpelletizable).

Art Unit: 1711

Claims 5, 7-13, 17, 19, 21-25 and 39-40 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The examiner regrets the above new ground of rejection.
